Christy L Smith, 33-year-old former McClaskey High School, Lancaster, Pennsylvania, was charged originally in 2010 for having sex with two students now also faces child pornography charges.

Smith took multiple photos of sexual encounters with one of her victims, a 17-year-old boy and kept the photos on her home computer and cellphone, according to charging documents filed Monday morning. The pornography investigation was started by the police after an interview with the 17-year-old boy where the boy told that Smith took photos with her cellphone camera while the two engaged in sexual intercourse. During a search at Smith's apartment on College Avenue in October 2010, eight photos were discovered on her computer and cellphone, the affidavit says. They depicted the victim in the nude or engaged in sex acts. The boy told police that he is in the photos.

Smith was first arrested in October 2010 for allegedly engaging in multiple sexual encounters with a 15-year-old male student. Between November 2008 and January 2009, Smith allegedly invited the teen age boy to her home where she performed sex acts on the boy and had full sexual intercourses with him on many occasions. The teen said Smith performed oral sex on him, and had him perform it on her, at least three times. He said all of the incidents happened inside Smith's apartment in the 700 block of College Avenue in Lancaster. Smith was arrested following a 9-month investigation.

Later the same month Smith faced more charges, this time for sexual realionship with another student: Christy Smith allegedly has sex with a 17-year-old boy numerous times, also at her College Avenue apartment between December 2009 and April 2010.

Based on the results of forensic analysis, Smith has now been charged with eight counts of sexual abuse of children.

Smith, whose actions seem to be pretty predator-like, has been in prison for the original charges since October 2010.
